Terms and Conditions for Distance Learning Courses at the Vedic Academy

1. Subject and Aim of the Study Program
The subject of distance learning is the acquisition of knowledge in the selected subject area. The aim of the course is to give participants the knowledge and skills they need to apply this knowledge in practice.

2. Requirements
There are no requirements for admission to a distance learning course at the Vedic Academy.

3. Beginning of Studies
The course begins on the day on which the student receives the first study material.

4. Study Material
Along with the enrollment confirmation, the student will receive from the Vedic Academy the course materials and/or access to the course materials on Google Classroom for the entire distance learning program in which they are enrolled. The physical copy of the course materials becomes the property of the student. All copyrights and intellectual property rights to the content remain with the Vedic Academy or the respective authors. The course materials may be used exclusively for the student's own personal study purposes. Any reproduction, distribution to third parties, publication, or commercial use of the content—in whole or in part—is prohibited without the prior written permission of the Vedic Academy.

5. Correction and Task Solution
Tasks must be completed for each session. The answers for each lesson are to be sent to the study supervisor. The study supervisor corrects and evaluates the student's answers and, if necessary, explains their corrections. The supervisor is available for the student throughout the distance learning course and is ready to answer any technical questions.

6. Graduation
The Vedic Academy honours each separately marked section of the course with its own certificate. In the study description the designations of the respective certificates are specified in detail. If the task solutions and the project work were evaluated at least with the note sufficiently, the student receives the authorization to participate in the conclusion examination. After successfully passing this examination with at least the grade of „sufficient", the student receives the corresponding certificate from the Vedic Academy. The final examination takes place in writing from home. Note: The distance learning courses of the Vedic Academy are state-registered. This makes it possible to issue the certificate documents with the title of Diploma. The award of the nationally protected name title "Diploma", is however reserved for the national universities and professional schools.

7. Duration of Study
In principle, the student can arrange their studies individually within the framework of the duration of study period specified in the application for the distance learning course. After the end of the standard study period for one contract period, there is the possibility of free supervision for a further three months. The contract is automatically extended free of charge for this period of time if you take advantage of the three months. If the student want more additional supervision, an additional supervision fee of 80 euros per month will be charged.
If the student fails the written final exam twice in a row, the course of study is automatically extended by three months at an additional cost. This extension incurs a monthly fee of 80 euros. If the final thesis is not passed after the third paid attempt, no certificate can be issued, as the course will be considered incomplete.

8. Tuition Fees
According to the Distance Learning Protection Act, tuition fees will not increase during the term of the contract. The tuition fees include all teaching materials, supervision by qualified tutors during your studies, correction of homework and project work. Tuition fees must be paid in the specified instalments on the 15th of each month. The first instalment is due on the 15th of the month following the signing of the contract.

9. Termination of the Study Contract
The participant may terminate the distance learning contract without giving reasons up to the end of the first six months after signing the contract by giving six weeks' notice and at any time after the end of the first six months by giving three months' notice to the end of the month. The right of the organiser and the participant to terminate the contract for good reasons remains unaffected. The cancellation must be made in writing. This contract has a minimum term of 6 months.

10. Social Guarantee
If unforeseeable reasons arise after the student has started studying (prolonged illness, unemployment), the student can apply for deferment of payment of the next due fees. The application must be made in good time before the due date.
The request will always be granted if the student has duly made the payments due by that date. If the Vedic Academy grants him deferrals of his payments, he is nevertheless entitled to continue his studies unhindered.

11. Default / extraordinary termination / compensation
If the participant is in arrears with at least 3 monthly instalments and there is no deferment according to § 10, Vedic Academy is entitled to terminate the study contract without notice.
In the case of a justified termination according to § 11, the participant owes a flat rate of 70% of the agreed tuition fees, regardless of how much of the course the participant has already completed. The participant is permitted to prove that no or less damage has been incurred. The Vedic Academy is entitled to prove higher damages.

12. Contractual Security
For the student and the Vedic Academy, the rules set out in this registration form apply. Together with the confirmation of registration and a copy of the contract document, the student will receive a detailed description of the studies he/she has completed.

13. Place of Jurisdiction
The place of jurisdiction is the student's place of residence.
